'Ovaltine' PROVIDES THE ENERGY CHILDREN NEED

It's natural for children to be boisterous—so easy for them to use up too much energy. Wise parents guard against this by giving their kiddies the delicious goodness of 'Ovaltine' each night at bedtime. Its nutritional value and vitamin content are outstanding, and it supplies that extra bit of energy they need. 'Ovaltine' at bedtime makes sure they get really refreshing sleep and prepares them for another happy and energetic day.

OVALTINE
THE SUPREME FOOD BEVERAGE

The goodness of eggs, cream-milk and barley—and of course of 'Ovaltine' to build firm bones, have strong brains and give you an healthy steady nerves. Children love its delicious flavour.

United Kingdom Trade Commissioner In British West Africa Appointed

The need for direct official Britain to West Africa. This recommendation by British West Africa that such a post will be filled by a commercial man, for example, to establish have created the appointment of contacts between United King- Mr. Daniel Wood as United dom manufacturers and West Kingdom Trade Commissioner in African importers of goods, but West Africa, with Headquarters he will also be concerned with at Lagos.

Mr. Wood met the members practically every aspect of trade of the House on Saturday, June and will endeavour to keep 23, 1951, and explained the duties British firms and the Board of and set up of his new office. Trade continually informed of

The Trade Commissioner's changes in the economic set-up relations are extremely varied in the way of life, habits, cus- and will cover all subjects having toms, buying power and tastes any bearing whatsoever on the of the West African population, development prospects as well as details of all small or large-scale development projects here, in order that Britain may be able to keep abreast of current opportunities in this market in which she is very keenly interested.

In other words, the Trade Commissioner is the Economic Adviser to the Board of Trade in Britain on all matters pertaining to these territories.

Britain's Trade Commissioner Service covers the whole of the British Commonwealth and Empire, but in some places where an Trade Commissioner is actually resident, honorary Imperial Trade Correspondents of the Board of Trade perform the ordinary functions. That has been the position hitherto in British West Africa and, up to now, the Department of Commerce and Industries in Nigeria has acted as Imperial Trade Correspondent of the Board of Trade. In future, all questions relating to export trade FROM BRITAIN TO NIGERIA should be addressed to the Trade Commissioner, who will be glad to assist to the best of his ability, any commercial man who submit their queries to him. Matters concerning NIGERIAN EXPORTS TO BRITAIN, however, will continue to be dealt with by the Department of Commerce and Industries.

Britain Becomes A Mecca For Research

LONDON—A great inflow of vehicles to Britain from all over the world to study her agricultural methods suggests that the country's leadership for generations has pioneered industrial advance is taking on a new role as a Mecca of agricultural ideas.

Visitors from East Africa, Nigeria and South Africa took great interest in modern agricultural implements and machines exhibited at the Bath and West Agricultural Show—the first of the big summer shows in the U.K. They visited stands showing the Ferguson system of complete farm mechanisation and were anxious to see the wide range of modern implements which are incorporated in the system. Attendance at the Show was over 89,000—17,000 more than last year. Visitors from all over the world were present.

AFRICAN CHIEF

Two chiefs from the northern provinces of Nigeria who are members of the House of chiefs have arrived in London by air for a two-week visit to study British agricultural methods and local government, under arrangements made by the British Council.

They are, Mallam Ahamadu, the 10th Lamido of Adamawa, and the Etsu Lapai (Bassa). Each is accompanied by an official of the Native government. Mr. H. P. W. Murray, District Officer of Gombe, is escorting the chiefs throughout this visit.

GRANTS FROM LATE FORD FOR AMERICAN EDUCATION

$50,000,000 dollars Foundation which was established by the late American industrialist, Henry Ford, and his son, Edsel Ford.

The fund for Adult Education will seek to expand educational opportunities for adults who want to continue their formal education in this manner it will be promoting the ultimate objective of the Ford Foundation as stated in the 1950 report:

"Education must meet the need of the human spirit. It must assist persons to develop a satisfactory personal philosophy and sense of values, to cultivate taste for fine arts, music and the arts; and to grow in ability to analyse problems and arrive at thoughtful conclusions."

The second of the two agencies, the Fund for the Advancement of Education, will study the objectives and procedures of education in elementary and secondary schools and in universities. Experimentation will play an important part in the studies. One of the first experiments will begin next September. It is designed to test the mental abilities of students less than 16, who have completed the tenth grade.
