THIS MODERN AGE

The Olympic Games of London, still fresh in our memory, were a triumph of organisation, largely by voluntary workers, over a host of difficulties and immediate post-war problems. Another outstanding characteristic was that they reminded a sorely-troubled world that friendship is natural to man, that it lives and can be nurtured, and that it is free of any fetters which may be forged by race, colour or language.

Britain was too short of food, material and money, said the cautious and the doubtful. The world was too tired, too preoccupied with licking the wounds of war, said the cynics and unbelievers. The enthusiasts, however, were not to be deterred and their faith reaped a rich reward. Six thousand athletes from sixty-two countries took part and an intimate observer has described their relations as a veritable "Feast of Friendship" which knew no barriers and which has carried happy fruitful memories to every corner of the globe.

It is the taking part and not the winning that matters. That is the Olympic creed, and it is in that spirit that six thousand of the world's finest athletes and [illegible] million spectators have become messengers of goodwill and friendship. If this same Olympic spirit of goodwill were shared by men of all nations, no problem could long withstand it. Most of the troubles which afflict this modern age, most of the differences between man and man, could be solved if selfishness could give way to goodwill, and the base passions of envy and suspicion could be permanently driven aside by the spirit of service, understanding and compromise.

Goodwill and friendship are very precious things in life and we are the richer when they enter into our every thought and action. The spirit of service, with its handmaidens sincerity, courtesy and understanding, is fundamental in both and it is this spirit which increasingly animates and influences the conduct of great modern enterprises like The United Africa Company.

"THIS MODERN AGE" WILL APPEAR HERE EVERY WEEK.

Balogun & Dawodu Accused Of Theft

An interesting case of how two friends Messrs Balogun and Dawodu duped a popular business man in Lagos came up before Magistrate Ayo Williams at the Sant Anna Court No 1 on Tuesday, December 12, 1950.

The case as outlined by the Police was that during October 24th to 26th 1950, the accused persons jointly stole from Mr Shittu Suamonu of 20 Ereko Lane Lagos, 9 cases of Alluminium Wares value £447:5:5d.

Messrs Dosumu and Adefarasin appeared for the accused persons, while Mr G.B.A. Coker watched brief for the complainant.

At the resumption of the case the first witness for the Police was the complainant. He disposed how he approached the two accused persons in October 1950 for a loan of £185, to pay duty on certain goods which he ordered from England, and how on certain understandings the two persons asked him to sign a promisory note of £290 on the 4th of November 1950.

The Complainant said in view of this understandings he kept the 9 cases Aluminium wares in the stores of the accused person but when on 5th November 1950, he sent order to withdraw his goods, his clerk was told by the accused person that the good were not seen in the stores, he went himself to ask for the good and he was told the same thing.

As the complainant could not understand this change of attitude he made private investigation and later discovered that his goods had been sold to one Nusiratu Aduke of 55 Kosoko Street Lagos for the sum of £214:16/-.

As a result of this the Complainant made a report to the Police, Madam Nusiratu was indentified in the open Court as the woman with whom the stolen goods were recovered. After this witness the Police made application that few samples of the goods be used as exibit.

The case was at this juncture adjourned till December 28 1950.

Lagos Electricity Undertaking

There has been some improvement in the generating capacity of the power station, and in distribution in certain areas supplied by the Lagos Electricity Undertaking, and it has been found possible to relax temporarily certain of the restrictions now imposed.

These relaxations cannot for technical reasons be applied to the undertaking as a whole as many sub-stations are already working under overload conditions. It will be possible, therefore, only to accept new applications for the supply of electricity in certain areas at present, and it is hoped to include other areas from time to time. Applications already received, and for which supply has now become possible, will be dealt with in strict rotation as will be any new applications.

Consumers granted a day-time supply must continue to observe the limiting period. New applications for day-time supply must guarantee to observe these restrictions.

Installation of domestic appliances (cookers, water heaters etc) is still restricted. Consumers who already have these appliances must switch of during the peak period (6.30 p.m.-9.30 p.m.).
