It's natural for children to be boisterous—so easy for them to use up too much energy. Wise parents guard against this by giving their kiddies the delicious goodness of 'Ovaltine' each night at bedtime. Its nutritional value and vitamin content are outstanding, and it supplies that extra bit of energy they need. 'Ovaltine' at bedtime makes sure they get really refreshing sleep and prepares them for another happy and energetic day.

Government Notice

Locomotive Drivers' "Go Slow"

Since midnight of last Sunday, the 9th December, at the bidding of their Union, locomotive drivers throughout Nigeria have been "going slow". For example, trains which would normally take about five hours between Ibadan and Lagos have been taking twelve or fourteen hours. Already this has caused serious inconvenience to travellers and heavy losses to the traders of the country, and it also means that for the present no goods can be accepted as freight. If the "go slow" continues much graver consequences will follow. In towns which are dependent on the regular delivery of coal by rail there may be failure of electricity and water supplies. Large-scale reductions in railway Traffic will make it necessary to lay off many employees who are not in any way concerned with the Union's action. Posts too many be affected and again labour may have to be laid off.

This statement recounts, for the information of the public, the events leading up to a situation which threatens to dislocate the country's economy and bring loss and hardship to many thousands of people.

In 1948 the Union put forward certain claims, which were virtually the same as those which are now given as the reason for the "go slow". There was conciliation, in the course of which Government offered important concessions, and agreement was reached on most of the points in dispute. For example, the salary scales for both Locomotive Drivers Grade III and Locomotive Drivers Grade II were improved, while enhanced opportunities of promotion were created by a very large increase in the number of posts in the higher grades. In 1947/48 there were 60 posts for Locomotive Drivers in Grade I, today there are 144 such posts. Above these posts there are 18 posts for Senior Locomotive Drivers and 10 for Instructional Drivers.

The Union re-opened the dispute in June of this year. The Commissioner of Labour at once appointed a Conciliator and nine[?] meetings were held, the last being on October 26th. No agreement was reached on the main items. The Union was demanding salaries, which in the case of Grade I Drivers, would have represented a 50% increase over present rates. The Union, although requested to do so, failed to produce any evidence which would justify such increases.

Since the talks ended no further communication of any kind was received from the Union until, at a meeting which the Conciliator had with the Union's President on 22nd November, the President stated that the members proposed to leave things as they were and revive their claims later. No communication either reviving or pressing any claims has since been received.

Rumours of a possible "go slow" led the Management to issue a general notice warning members of the Union of the consequences of such action. When, later, newspaper reports containing a specific threat of a "go slow" were published, the Commissioner of Labour asked the Union to meet him and a meeting took place on the 5th December. At that meeting, the Conciliator's suggestion that both the Management and the Union should sign an agreed statement on the result of the Conciliation, which would have included a statement of the Union's claims and of the replies of the Management, was refused by the Union.

On the 11th December, after the "go slow" had started, with its consequent dislocation of the Railway system and losses to Nigeria, the Management caused notices to be handed to individual drivers and firemen who had been going slow warning them that if they did less than a full day's work they would render themselves liable to dismissal.

The Management has made it clear that it cannot entertain claims for increases of the order hitherto demanded by the Union, and that if any increase is to be awarded evidence must be produced which will justify it. [illegible] the whole Railway [illegible] the whole Government service. [illegible] the Management and the Conciliator have been and are ready and willing to re-open the discussions to consider any such evidence that the Union may [illegible]. The Management and the Conciliator are still ready to resume such discussions, but it will be appreciated that if there is to be any hope of a successful outcome the unconstitutional threat and pressure which the present go-slow strike entails must be removed.
