Africa In The News...

First Loan To Liberia

The World Bank's first loan to Liberia, totalling £1,030,000, made on Jauuary 8, will be used for highway construction and maintenance covering the entire country. The road and bridge building scheme is expected to make an important contribution to Liberia's economy. The Bank have agreed to delay amortization of its loan until June 1972.

Demand For African Products

African robusta coffees have reached their highest price level on the London market since 1958 and the general picture for African producers is one of 'strong demand especially from grinders of instant coffee. This was stated in the Financial Times of Tuesday January 8, in an article on the "Coffee Boom".

The International Coffee Agreement has certainly contributed to the improved coffee prices, which can be expected to prevail for the next year, it says.

British Aid For Africa Refugees

"Inter-Church Aid"-an organ of the British Council of Churches-is to provide £56,000 to finance a scheme aimed at helping refugees in Central African. The project, covering food-production and land settlement for over 18,000 refugees from Rwanda, was proposed by the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees.

"Inter-Church Aid" has offered to provide the urgently needed initial sum of £16,000 immediately and to meet subsequent costs as they arise over the next twelve months.

British Pavilion at Trade Fair

The British pavilion at this year's Central African Trade Fair at Bulawayo, which will have as its theme "Design for Living", will illustrate the impact of good design on life in modern Britain and demonstratre that good functional design enhances living, Exhibits will include room settings, sports and gardening equipment as well as boat designs.

Britain Trains More African Nurses

More African nurses are likely to be trained in Britain under a new scheme sponsored by the Africa Educational Trust in London. The trust is a charitable organisation founded in 1958 to offer all Africans knowledge on major and minor problems of progress today. It also maintains an advice centre which deals with inquiries from African students in London and gives any aid it can to both individuals and educational organisations in Africa.

British Televiewers See Life Story Of Mary Slessor

LONDON—A book on the life of Marry Slessor, the remarkable woman pioneer missionary who spent forty years in Nigeria has been adapted for television showing in Britain.

The first edition was on television last Suuday (January 5) and the instalment will follow on the next two Sundays (January 12 and 19). They are being broadcast in B.B.C. programme 'Sunday Story' which every Sunday presents a series of stories with religious theme.

Mary Slessor was born in Aberdeen, Scotland, in the 1840's and her biography, 'She had a Magic, written by Brian O'Brian, has been adapted and read by Molly Weir, and actress of stage, screen and television who was born in Glasgow

The Queen and Princess Alexandra both placed wreaths on Mary Slessor's grave in Calabar during Royal tours of Nigeria

New Post For Sir Ralph Grey

LONDON - Sir Ralph Grey; at one time Chief Secretary to the Federation of Nigeria and Deputy Governor General, has been appointed Governor and Commander-in-Chief of the Bahamas.

He will succeed Sir Robert Stapledon who is retiring. Before his appointment to the Bahamas, Sir Robert was Governor of Eastern Nigeria from 1956 to 1960.

Mr. Richard Hornby's Visit To Nigeria

Mr. Richard Hornby, M P., Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State, Commonwealth Relations Office, who has special ministerial responsibilities in the field of information, is visiting Nigeria. The main purpose of his visit is to see something of the work of the British Information Services but he is taking full advantage of the opportunity to learn at first hand about Commonwealth West African countries and to have a general exchange of views with Ministers.

He arrived in Nigeria on 1st January and visited Lagos, Ibadan, Enugu and Kaduna before flying on to Ghana and Sierra Leone.

Mr Hornby has been Conservative Member of Parliament for the Tonbridge Division of Kent since June 1956, when he entered the House of Commons at a by election.

He went to school at Winchester, where he won a history scholarship to Trinity College, Oxford; he went up after the second world war, during which he served, from 1941 to 1945, in the King's Royal Rifle Corps. At Oxford he took his degree in the Honours School of History and was awarded his "blue" for Association Football.

After going down from the University he spent two years teaching history at Eton, and while there was elected to the Urban District Council. He gave up teaching in 1950, in order to gain wider experience and devote more time to politics. He worked for a time with Unilever, and later with a well-known international firm of marketing and advertising consultants.

As a backbencher in the House he took a special interest in education labour relations in indusry and Commonwealth affairs. He was formerly Joint Chairman of the all-party Council for Education in the Commonwealth, Chairman of his Party's Parliamentry Committee on Education and Honorary Secrerary of the West Indies Sub-Committee of the Party's Commonwealth Affairs.

From November 1959 until early in 1963 he was Parliamentary Private Seccretary to the Rt Hon. Duncan Sandys when the latter was Minister for Aviation and then Secretary of State for Commonwealth Relations and for the Colonies.

Mr. Hornby met the Press [illegible] day in Lagos before he left for Ghana.
