BARRISTER A. ALAKIJA:—Chairman and gentlemen, there are several speakers who I understand, are going to speak to you in English and I have been asked to speak in Yoruba, as for me I can speak both in English and Yoruba. We have heard that some collection is being made and is about to be utilised for a petition on behalf of Prince Eleko, those who have paid anything showed please hold up their hands. (No show of hands.) I say that the 13 are not able to speak for the country, because the educated classes are not all invited. Take it religiously how many Wesleyans were there, how many Roman Catholics, Baptist, Mehommedans and Pagans? None! Here is the Leader of the Bar of Nigeria before us, wherever he is not invited to, the Bar is not represented, same can be said of our Doctors, I say it at this meeting, and I can say it anywhere that the 13 is not the Community. The next step we showed beg the Governor. I, in my own opinion, see nothing of which Prince Eleko is guilty to warrant his proposed deposition.

INTERESTING COURT DECISION.

£168 to be paid by shilling monthly instalments.

Man who was described as being "Down and out."

There was a general amazement in Mr. Justice M. L. Tew's Court on Monday, the 5th November, 1928, when an order was made to the effect that one J. P. Dawodu was to pay Alfred P. da Costa (judgment creditor) the sum of £163 with £5 3s. od. costs by one shilling monthly instalments.

Dawodu who was represented by Mr. M. N. Bright-Wilson was described as an insolvent debtor having various claims and judgments against him. Mr. Wilson said further that he (Dawodu) had to pay a series of instalments to his creditors according to various judgments of the Court entered against him.

He was down and out and was unable to pay these series of instalments. He had applied to several places for work and failed. He was at one time a prosperous man with business worth thousands of pounds but for some years he had met with a reverse of fortune.

In ordering payment at the rate of one shilling a month, His Honour observed that the order was made so that the judgment debtor might not forget the debt.—The Nigerian Daily Times

271 years to pay a debt.
